By WASH FAYETTE

It seems that another one of those "quizzes," sprung upon the unsuspecting Rotarians last week, had a questionable answer, although the answer given has long been the common belief.

The question was: "Where was John Steptoe when the big cyclone took place?" and the answer given was, "In the Catholic Church in the Catholic Cemetery. The whole church was wrecked including the tower in which he was kneeling in prayer."

Well, it seems that John was not in the old church in the cemetery at all, but was in the present church, corner of North and East streets.

I have no less an authority on this than the original news story regarding it, which was carried in the Fayette County Herald, Saturday, September 12, 1885—the big twister having occurred about 8 P. M. on September 8, and this story follows in its entirety:

"The Rev. John B. Steptoe, our colored friend, known as 'Camp-meeting John,' over on Sunny Side, gave us a little of his experience. He says he was returning home from a prayer meeting, and at the new Catholic Church corner he saw the Baptist Church on the opposite corner fall, and thinking he had better seek a place of safety, dodged into the tower of the Catholic Church, and falling upon his knees, prayed that he might be saved. When the storm passed he went back up town; and speaking of the great destruction of property, said the Baptist Church was down, for he saw the walls fall, but that the Catholic Church was all right, for he took refuge in its tower and remained in it until the storm was over. On retracing his steps for home again he passed by the Catholic Church when he was astonished to notice nothing but the tower remained standing; all the rest was down and could only have gone while he was in the tower. This certainly is an instance whereby strong belief in prayer saved his life."

I was surprised to hear a prominent Washington C. H. woman say, the other day, that she never took the keys out of her automobile when she parked uptown here or around her home.

Police authorities here and in other places are repeatedly advising motorists to be careful about car and tire thieves.

The restrictions placed upon the sale of tires, automobiles and other necessary equipment have served as an incentive to thieves to steal automobiles and especially wheels with good tires on them.

Recovering a stolen car in running condition is a difficult task and the owner is responsible for the protection of his own car. It is just plain sound judgment never to leave your car parked with the ignition keys in it and never leave it or your garage unlocked. And don't park your automobile in a place where thieves may remove wheels with little chance of being discovered at their theft.

There are two very patriotic boys in the city who have demonstrated their patriotism in a practical manner.

Two sailors had been standing along one of the main streets in the eastern part of the city, endeavoring to thumb a ride westward from the incoming traffic, and were having no success.

Two rather small boys took in the situation, and proffered their bicycles to the two sailors to ride to the west side of town and pick up a ride from the outgoing traffic.

The two sailors willingly accepted, placed the boys on the handlebars, and pedaled through town to the west side, where a short time later they picked up the much wanted lift by automobile.

I haven't been able to learn the names of the boys, if you know them, give me a call.

President's Authority

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(P)—Argument on the claim of seven of the eight Nazis who came by submarine equipped to blast and burn America's war plants that they have the right of trial in civil courts was resumed at noon today before the Supreme Court.

Eight of the nine justices were present, Justice Douglas, who was absent yesterday because of the long train trip from Oregon, arrived overnight and took his place between Justices Reed and Byrnes. The only member missing was Justice Murphy, who disqualified himself because he is on duty as a lieutenant colonel in the army.

Attorney General Biddle, wearing a black business suit instead of the white linen he wore yesterday, resumed his argument in opposition to the petition of the prisoners for a writ which would remove the accused from the custody of the army and place them before the civil courts. All eight of the prisoners have been on trial before a presidentially-appointed panel of seven generals.

Biddle was expected to require an hour or more to complete his argument.

He will be followed by Colonel Kenneth Royall of the defense staff, who said he might require another hour.

At issue is the validity of President Roosevelt's proclamation denying access to the civil courts to certain persons, and by strong implication directed at the eight accused, and his order that they be tried by a military commission.

It is the defendants' contention that they were not saboteurs at all—just refugees fleeing from

SALT LAKE CITY, July 30.—(P)—Donald Lawton Condit, 25, was executed by a firing squad today for the slaying of Harold A. Thorne, Salt Lake City salesman. Condit, a hitchhiker whom Thorne had given a ride, chose this way to die in preference to hanging, after he was convicted of first degree murder.

Five men from Iron County, where the crime took place, fired the lethal volley. One of the guards carried a blank but none of the executioners knew which held that gun.

The shots were fired at 6:08 A. M. At 6:11 the prison physician pronounced Condit dead.

King's Mills Blast
Is Felt Here—Five
Reported Killed

An explosion in the King Powder Co., plant near Lebanon, which was felt in Washington C. H., 50 miles away shortly after noon Thursday, killed at least five persons, according to latest and meager reports.

Sheriff William Hufford of Warren County said he understood the blast occurred in a powder press. The force of the explosion rocked the entire countryside around Lebanon and was distinctly felt in Cincinnati, 25 miles away. Reports from Montgomery, on the northern edge of Cincinnati, said the shock was so severe that houses seemed to sway and residents of Pleasant Ridge, another Cincinnati suburb said doors slammed as if hit by a strong wind.

The cloud of white smoke which rose immediately following the blast was visible for 15 to 20 miles, telephone calls to surrounding communities revealed.

While the concussion of the blast was nothing like as severe in Washington C. H., as when the powder house near the Beam Quarry, west of Sabina, blew up several months ago, it was distinctly felt. Windows rattled and houses trembled under the force of the jolt. Calls came into the Record-Herald office with tense-voiced queries for some time, but it was not until 1:08 P. M. that the first bulletin came in from the Associated Press disclosing the cause. Most

German Steel Center
Smashed By Bombers
Raiding Saarbruecken

LONDON, July 30.—(P)—A strong force of British bombers, striking at Germany for the seventh time in 10 nights, did great damage in a concentrated attack last night on Saarbruecken, German steel manufacturing center near the French border, the Air Ministry announced today.

Nine planes were lost in the assault—the first on Saarbruecken since November 8, 1940—the announcement said. Saarbruecken is a key railway junction as well as an industrial city.

Nazi air raiders, meanwhile, attacked widely separated areas in Britain, dropping a few bombs in the Greater London area for the first time since June 3 and stabbing at several points in the Midlands and East Anglia.

One of the Nazi targets in the Midlands was the industrial center of Birmingham, where the ministries of air and home security said, the raiders did some damage and caused some casualties.

On Trial for Sedition

INDIANAPOLIS, July 30.—(P)—William Dudley Pelley, former Silver Shirt leader on trial for sedition, yesterday subpoenaed several outstanding national figures, including Charles A. Lindbergh, as witnesses to aid in his defense.

Pelley also requested the calling of Mariner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, together with "any and all statements" showing the "gross worth" of the United States as of, or as near as possible to, December 31, 1941, and January 12, 1942.

The request still required the approval of Judge Robert C. Baltzell but Oscar R. Ewing, special prosecutor, said the prosecution would not oppose it if the defense insisted Eccles' testimony was necessary.

were shot down, a communique said.

The RAF raids on western Germany were accompanied by a heavy aerial bombardment of the occupied French coast between Boulogne and Calais.

Observers on the English southeast coast said that relays of big British bombers sped over the channel in a steady procession throughout the moonlit night, and the thunder of bomb blasts on the French shore reverberated across Dover Strait.

Saarbruecken, a city with a peacetime population of about 135,000, lies in the heart of the great Saar valley coal fields, and is one of the chief centers of iron and steel production in Germany.

The Berlin radio said that several other towns in western Germany also were bombed by the British raiders.

It was the second successive night attack on Germany, Hamburg and its big submarine-building yards having been the target the preceding night of a mass attack in which perhaps 600 planes participated.

Hamburg also was attacked Sunday night. Duisburg—important manufacturing center at the junction of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers—had been raided on four of the previous six nights.

Hopkins and Mrs. Macy
Married in White House

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(P)—Harry Hopkins, presidential aide, and Mrs. Louise Gill Macy, New York socialite and fashion writer, were married today in the first White House wedding in 24 years. President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt were present.

The simple ceremony took place in the President's oval study on the second floor of the White House.

The Rev. Dr. Russell J. Clinchy of Hartford, Conn., read the vows. The guest list, in addition to Mrs. Clinchy, was limited to 13 members of the immediate families of the bride and groom, and in addition, members of the White House staff.

After the ceremony, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt were hosts at a luncheon for the wedding guests.

Mrs. Hopkins' wedding dress was a simple, street-length blue crepe. Her especially designed jewelry included earclips, lapel pins incorporating a victory knot motif copied from a sailor's manual. The wedding ring was a twist of gold rope, and the engagement ring a cluster of diamonds set in gold rope.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(P)—The German high command already can see the bottom of its oil reserves, the Oil Weekly said today in a summary of Axis petroleum resources and supplies.

"There can be little doubt that the Axis of the west now is gravely concerned over its deficiency of oil," the Trade Journal said.

"The bitter fighting in southern Russia is a desperate struggle for oil, as well as a part of a supreme effort to dispose of an exasperating enemy," the Oil Weekly added.

Basing its figures on known statistics and calculations of use, the magazine estimated Germany had for its present Russian campaign about 2,000,000 tons of fuel oil. It estimated Germany used 12,500,000 tons in 23 weeks of Russian war last summer and fall.

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies, racing toward the Caspian Sea, reported today they had cut the last major rail line to the Caucasus oil fields, while in the north the Russians declared they had beaten off all German attempts to hammer wedges into Soviet lines above Stalingrad.

Late dispatches indicated that the Germans had found a "soft spot" in the Russian defenses east of Rostov and were exerting their main efforts in a drive to isolate the Caucasus.

REDS WON'T QUIT
PHILADELPHIA, July 30—

(P)—Premier Joseph Stalin "unlocked the inner chamber of Soviet defense secrets" for Harry Hopkins, personal adviser to President Roosevelt, a year ago this month, and promised to "stand firm against Nazi aggression," an article in the August issue of the Ladies' Home Journal relates.

Second Front Secret
Meanwhile, amid widespread agitation for an Allied invasion of western Europe, Sir Stafford Cripps again told Parliament in London that plans regarding a second front could not be divulged.

Sir Stafford, Prime Minister Churchill's spokesman in the House of Commons, said the government would not be able to reveal such plans "even in secret session," but in response to a member's question, he added: "I can tell him now, we have intentions."

London newspapers mentioned Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, as a possible Allied generalissimo for a second front.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(P)—Every interference with the rapid and efficient preparation of the armed forces for combat must be halted at once, Secretary Stimson said today in response to appeals for furlough of military personnel during the harvest season.

Exceptions to this policy, he said in a letter to Senator Nye (R-ND), were being confined to cases of extreme emergency, and excessive furloughs or leaves would "prejudice the progressive growth of our military power."

"If it should develop that the American people are confronted with a food emergency which cannot be met by existing surpluses," Stimson added, "the use of military personnel may be considered, but only if all sources of harvest labor have been exhausted and the military personnel is employed as units and not as individuals."

Stimson wrote Nye that his department was being "besieged" with requests for release and furlough of soldiers.

Up to Board's Hopes

Thursday, the third day of the Fair, brought another fair sized crowd to the grounds, although threatening rains during the morning and a heavy shower near the noon hour, greatly reduced the attendance.

However Fair officials said at 1:30 P. M. that the afternoon racing program would be carried out unless additional rainfall occurred before the races started.

In some parts of the county, notably the northern part, rainfall was so heavy during the morning that many persons, believing a similar heavy rainfall had occurred here, remained at home.

Unless there is a very heavy rainfall during Thursday afternoon, a huge crowd is expected to attend the night Fair, inasmuch as the grounds dry off quickly and the main walks through the grounds are stoned.

Wednesday's night crowd was at least a normal one for the second day, and Fair officials Thursday were still greatly pleased with results up to the present time.

Wednesday night was a warm one, but the big goodnatured crowd milled about the grounds, enjoying themselves generally.

Attendance for the pageant was much better than on the opening night but not up to hopes. The fact that the patriotic spectacle is really worth while has become known to the public generally and a large crowd is expected.

The cooler weather following the rain Thursday, was expected to add materially to the size of the night crowd.

Patrons generally spend much time viewing the various exhibits, both day and night.

Ship Sinkings

(By The Associated Press)

Survivors of a small American merchantman which "went down like a brick" about 150 miles off the East Coast July 24 said almost simultaneous explosions as torpedoes struck both port and starboard sides indicated the ship was attacked by two submarines.

Eighteen persons, including the captain and skipper of another vessel who was aboard as a passenger, were killed in the explosions or trapped below decks and drowned, the Navy said yesterday in announcing the recent sinking, which brought to 402 the Associated Press unofficial tabulation of Allied and neutral ship losses in the western Atlantic since December 7.

Although the merchantman "went down like a brick in less than a minute," according to survivors, 14 others aboard were rescued after a Navy patrol plane directed a fishing boat to where they were floundering in the sea.

War Today

Mass Bombing of Germany Will Hurt, But Alone It Can't Save Russia

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World News Service)
The disclosure by British Air Marshal Harris that a great Anglo-American air-fleet is about to scourge the Reich, city by city, signals one of the major developments of the war, but while we can expect much from it we shall do well not to jump to the conclusion that this is a quick solution of all our troubles.
One's first thought naturally is whether this aerial assault is likely to divert enough Nazi strength from the Russian front to help the Reds materially in their present grave position. The answer would seem to be in the negative.
Continual and heavy bombing of German cities probably would force withdrawal of some Nazi air-power from the Muscovite front, and any easement would be all to the good for the Bolsheviks. However, the bombing can scarcely affect the situation soon enough to help the Reds in their current fight.
Another question that arises is how far such massed bombing might carry us towards victory—a burning topic of debate at the moment. There are those who maintain that the war can be won in the air.
This theory has yet to be proved, and in any event the forthcoming Allied operations won't be on big enough scale at the outset to force an immediate decision. That bombing can play havoc with Hitler's war industries and transportation is a foregone conclusion, but the contribution this will make towards victory will depend on the trend of the Russo-German fighting.
If Hitler breaks through to fresh resources in the Caucasus, and hamstringing the Russian Army, he will be able to bolster his lagging war industries in Czechoslovakia and other sections which won't be so much affected by the bombing as factories in western Europe. In other words, he will be able to strengthen his own air-fleet and anti-aircraft defenses and so be better able to meet the Allied onslaught.
On the other hand, if the Russians are able to hold the Nazis, German industry will decline with ever-increasing speed. This will mean a deterioration of Hitler's air defense and thus will make the task of the Allied air-fleet easier.
Air Marshall Harris invited the German people to cast off Hitlerism and make peace, thereby avoiding destruction of their cities. Without evidence to support the idea, I don't think we should bank on the Germans quitting solely because of bombing. We've seen Warsaw endure a protracted deluge of bursting steel without a whisper, and we've seen the British defy the most terrific bombardment of history.
The Germans are a brave people and it will take a lot to break their morale. It wasn't fear of death by violence that made them surrender in the last war, but a combination of other circumstances: Stark hunger, imposed by the British blockade; lack of a just cause for which to make further sacrifice for their war lord; and the encouragement of President Wilson's Utopian fourteen points.
However, similar circumstances are beginning to pile up on them now. Apart from other things, unless Hitler achieves success in this summer offensive, his people are likely to experience a winter of terrible distress. And certainly the death and destruction and nerve strain caused by bombing won't give their morale any uplift.
There's one other interesting thought. Any Allied invasion of the continent must be preceded by a fierce aerial bombardment of coastal defenses, air bases, and transport lines. Once the bomb-

RATION OF FICE HOPES HELD AT JEFFERSONVILLE

Determination of Residents Of Community Firm in Spite of Consolidations
Jeffersonville civic leaders have not given up hope of convincing state rationing authorities that the establishment of a deputy county rationing office in the village not only would be in line with the general objectives of the whole rationing program but that it would be a practical move appreciated by the residents of the entire northern section of Fayette County.
This was disclosed by Hon. Warren Williams, representative of Fayette County in the state legislature, who, as spokesman for the residents of the community, said that the mass meeting held last week was in no sense an "indignation" meeting and that any such reference to it was resented by the people. Continuing, he declared that the meeting was in a spirit of understanding and cooperation and with a conviction that the establishment of a rationing office there would be the means of tire-saving, one of the purposes of the program. He also cited the inconvenience of coming to Washington C. H. to make ration applications and pointed out as one of the reasons why an office was wanted because there are "many" in the community who have no means of transportation immediately and easily available.
The people of the Jeffersonville community recognize the position of the County Rationing Board, headed by W. L. O'Brien, and appreciate the cooperative spirit of the board and its members, one of whom, Colin C. Campbell, lives near Jeffersonville.
The trend toward consolidation of the rationing activities, as indicated by the abandonment of eight deputy boards in Wyandott County and the centering of all administration of the program in the board in Upper Sandusky, the county seat, has had no effect on the determination of the residents of the Jeffersonville community to press their case, Williams said.
O'Brien, as chairman of the Fayette County board, was in Columbus Wednesday, Williams declared, and had said he would take the matter up with the state board.
The record of service given the community during the regular period for rationing sugar for canning was cited by Williams as evidence of the need of a permanent office in Jeffersonville. During the 23 days the canning sugar office was open, there were 1,929 applications for 9,592 pounds of sugar, the record shows. The office then was maintained with one paid employee and volunteers.

RURAL SCHOOLS OF COUNTY OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 8

More Than 2,200 Boys and Girls To Start 9-Month Term After Labor Day

The rural and village schools of the Fayette County will open Tuesday, September 8, or the day after Labor Day.
This was decided at this week's meeting of the County Board of Education.
It will be the beginning of nine months of school and over 2,200 boys and girls will be enrolled for the year.
During the next few weeks all school properties will be placed in condition for the opening and teaching staffs have been named for the various schools, so that there should be no hitch in the formal opening on the date scheduled.

BUS WAS SPEEDING; DRIVER IS FINED

State Highway Patrolman Makes Arrest

Leroy G. Mays, driver of a passenger bus, was fined $15 and costs by Judge S. A. Murry, Thursday morning, on a charge of speeding.
A Highway Patrolman halted the bus after it had been doing 65 miles per hour, it was stated.
Under a new order speed of buses is limited to around 40 miles as a tire saving precaution.

WILLIAM GAMEL RESIGNS POST AS SANITARIAN

In Health Department for 13 Years—To Be B. & O. Telegraph Operator

William Gamel, sanitary officer of the Fayette County Health Department the past 13 years, has tendered his resignation effective August 1, to accept a position as telegraph operator of the B. and O. Railroad.
Gamel had been with the Health Department here since 1929, and formerly was telegraph operator with the B. & O. and D. T. & I. Railroads for seven years.
During his 13 years with the Health Department he has accomplished a great deal of work and leaves a record of achievement that is hard to surpass.
He opened the laboratory at the Health Department office and his work in this line has been outstanding. In fact he did testing for some of the adjoining county boards of health and helped them set up testing equipment of their own.
For the present, it is understood, he will be employed at the B. & O. office in this city.

OHIO CAR QUOTA

COLUMBUS, July 30—(AP)—Ohio's new passenger car quota for August was set at 1,775 by the office of price administration yesterday. The State also has a carry-over of 350 automobiles from previous allotments.

War Today

Mass Bombing of Germany Will Hurt, But Alone It Can't Save Russia

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World News Service)
The disclosure by British Air Marshal Harris that a great Anglo-American air-fleet is about to scourge the Reich, city by city, signals one of the major developments of the war, but while we can expect much from it we shall do well not to jump to the conclusion that this is a quick solution of all our troubles.
One's first thought naturally is whether this aerial assault is likely to divert enough Nazi strength from the Russian front to help the Reds materially in their present grave position. The answer would seem to be in the negative.
Continual and heavy bombing of German cities probably would force withdrawal of some Nazi air-power from the Muscovite front, and any easement would be all to the good for the Bolsheviks. However, the bombing can scarcely affect the situation soon enough to help the Reds in their current fight.
Another question that arises is how far such massed bombing might carry us towards victory—a burning topic of debate at the moment. There are those who maintain that the war can be won in the air.
This theory has yet to be proved, and in any event the forthcoming Allied operations won't be on big enough scale at the outset to force an immediate decision. That bombing can play havoc with Hitler's war industries and transportation is a foregone conclusion, but the contribution this will make towards victory will depend on the trend of the Russo-German fighting.
If Hitler breaks through to fresh resources in the Caucasus, and hamstringing the Russian Army, he will be able to bolster his lagging war industries in Czechoslovakia and other sections which won't be so much affected by the bombing as factories in western Europe. In other words, he will be able to strengthen his own air-fleet and anti-aircraft defenses and so be better able to meet the Allied onslaught.
On the other hand, if the Russians are able to hold the Nazis, German industry will decline with ever-increasing speed. This will mean a deterioration of Hitler's air defense and thus will make the task of the Allied air-fleet easier.
Air Marshall Harris invited the German people to cast off Hitlerism and make peace, thereby avoiding destruction of their cities. Without evidence to support the idea, I don't think we should bank on the Germans quitting solely because of bombing. We've seen Warsaw endure a protracted deluge of bursting steel without a whisper, and we've seen the British defy the most terrific bombardment of history.
The Germans are a brave people and it will take a lot to break their morale. It wasn't fear of death by violence that made them surrender in the last war, but a combination of other circumstances: Stark hunger, imposed by the British blockade; lack of a just cause for which to make further sacrifice for their war lord; and the encouragement of President Wilson's Utopian fourteen points.
However, similar circumstances are beginning to pile up on them now. Apart from other things, unless Hitler achieves success in this summer offensive, his people are likely to experience a winter of terrible distress. And certainly the death and destruction and nerve strain caused by bombing won't give their morale any uplift.
There's one other interesting thought. Any Allied invasion of the continent must be preceded by a fierce aerial bombardment of coastal defenses, air bases, and transport lines. Once the bomb-

SPECIAL AWARDS TO BE MADE FOR WAR BOND SALES

County Committee Called To Meet Monday Evening To Make Nomination

F. E. Hill, chairman of the Fayette County War Savings Committee, has called a special meeting of the War Savings Staff of Fayette County for next Monday night at the office of the Dayton Power and Light Co. to nominate, discuss and decide upon some person in Fayette County for the honor of being the "War Bond Champion" for the month of July.

This is in line with a plan recently inaugurated by the state committee in charge of the war bond and stamp campaign by which volunteer War Bond workers in each of the state's 88 counties will be cited by the War Savings Staff for Ohio through presentation of medals, war bonds and other awards each month.

Nine silver medals and nine $25 War Bonds will be provided monthly by The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio for presentation to the ranking workers among the county champions in each of the state's nine regions.

Each month the volunteer war bond worker having the outstanding record of accomplishment in Fayette County will be designated as "War Bond Champion of the Month" and given a special certificate of award for his or her work. Selection will be based upon a general contribution of time, energy, ability and sacrifice in promotion of local War Bond sales, Chairman Hill said.

Local county winners will compete with winners from Adams, Brown, Clinton, Gallia, Highland, Jackson, Lawrence, Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Scioto and Vinton counties for one of the special honor medals and a $25 War Bond to be awarded the regional winner in each of Ohio's nine districts. District winners will be designated as members of the "Supreme War Bond Champion Council of the Month."

An additional part of the new plan provides for the selection of one county in the state each month as the "Pacemaker of the Month." The honor county will be awarded a special citation and an honor flag, being specially designed for this purpose. The awards also will be provided by The Standard Oil Company, which is sponsoring the entire recognition plan in the interest of the War Savings program.

Winners for July will be announced around the middle of August, Hill said.

Still Below July Quota

Chairman Hill Tuesday called attention to the fact that the Fayette County war bond sales so far in July had reached only a total of $31,000 up to July 23. The quota for the month set by the state headquarters was $52,000 which leaves a considerable amount yet to be sold before the end of July.

All committees of the organization originally formed and which have been assigned duties by Chairman Hill are being urged to put forth special effort during the last few days of the month.

July 30 and 31 have been designated as "Victory Days" all over Ohio, in which all committees are expected to make special efforts to "go over the top" by reaching or exceeding the monthly quota on bond sales.

Special corsages, made of war savings stamps are being sold at the fair grounds by mem-

'Ohio's Soldiers' Movie To Be At Fair Friday

Top: A battery lines up for firing in practice warfare. Center: Ohio's soldiers stand at attention. Bottom: One of the men who will lick the Axis.

Just where all of the Fayette County boys who are serving with the United States army are now may not be definitely known. Many of them doubtless, have long since gone to foreign lands. But, in a movie to be shown at the Fair Friday night, interspersing the vaudeville stage Bevue, scenes of camps and maneuvers where they got their training will be shown. Some of the familiar faces of the "home boys" may be in the pictures.

Men of the 37th Division, now serving on unknown foreign fronts, are featured in the picture entitled "Ohio's Soldiers," which is to be shown here under the sponsorship of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio. Old Company M. that went through the first World War as part of the famous Rainbow Division, went into training as a part of the 37th Division.

"Ohio's Soldiers" was taken in five of the country's major training camps and the pictures show actual dramatic scenes of practice warfare and gives a graphic picture of how the Yanks were and still are prepared for actual modern combat.

Hundreds of Ohioans already have seen sons or brothers or sweethearts or husbands in this picture, George L. Gossard, the Fair secretary, said as he announced its showing here.

A WORTH WHILE PLEDGE
Some news events provide their own editorial comments. Such, we believe, is the pledge sent to President Roosevelt by 613 workers in the National Transit Pump & Machine Works of Oil City, Pa. Perhaps you have read it in the news columns. Even then, it's worth reading again, slowly and meditatively:

"I realize that I am a soldier of production, whose duties are as important in this war as those of the man behind the gun.
"I will do my work well and efficiently and will stay on my job, producing to the best of my ability, until my shift ends.
"I will carry out my duties in accordance with instructions.
"I will think before I act.
"I will endeavor to save material by avoiding mistakes and spoilage.
"I will be careful of my health and prevent accidents, to avoid loss of time.
"I will keep my working place tidy and in order.
"All to the end that we may succeed in our efforts to increase production and attain the goal set as necessary to carry us to the final decisive victory over our treacherous enemies who now are threatening the homes of our children and the liberty of our nation."

MARTYRS TO FREEDOM

The story of occupied Europe's gallant resistance to Nazi oppression, pieced together by the Office of Facts and Figures in "The Unconquered People," emphasizes anew how deeply the love of liberty has engrained itself in the human heart.

Truly, there are things they can't do to us who have known what it was to be free.
Under the iron heel of the most sadistic military power of modern times, with death for self and loved ones the price of any misstep, the people of France and Holland, Norway and Greece, Serbia and Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Poland achieve telling sabotage against their Nazi conquerors.

Even the few highlights which trickle through rigid censorship demonstrate that the Liberty Front is acquiring more than a token nuisance value.

The ever more drastic measures which Hitler and Himmler are taking against such underground activities proves that these experts in fifth columning recognize the importance of the Liberty Front.

When Lieut.-Col. Holtz was killed last October by patriots in Nantes, the Gestapo shot 50 Frenchmen in reprisal.

When an S. S. (police) official was killed at Waer in December, every fifth Polish male in the village was shot—a total of 167.

When Reinhard Heydrich, the butcher, was killed in Prague last month, more

Washington at a Glance By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — "Russians are retreating stubbornly," said a Moscow dispatch the other day, bringing news of the campaign on the Caucasus front.
"Chinese have successfully evacuated positions in Chekiang province," related a message from Chungking, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's capital.
"Germans advance with enormous losses," came a British report awhile ago from North Africa. That was farther back than the other two. The Nazis are pretty stationary in that area at present. However, the official version had to discount their continued to be making more or less of it.
That's how these war stories are relayed to us.
I've no doubt the same kind of guff is dished out to the Berlin press and to Rome's and Tokyo's.
The ideas to sustain national morale, on whichever side it requires sustenance. The only trouble with it is that it reciprocally is so meaningless. Retreating stubbornly! But retreating. Evacuating positions successfully! But evacuating 'em. Enormous losses! But an advance accompanying 'em.
The fact is that heaven alone knows how the war's developing. No. Maybe, besides heaven the actual fighters know. But the conflicting countries' various respective civilian publics don't.

U. S. Public Up in Air
The American public doesn't, anyway. European and Asiatic publics probably have quite an inkling. They're on short rations already. Think of Germany—without beer! Think of England—with only one cup of tea per person!
It's starting to hit us, too, though.
I guess I don't realize it, not being an automobilist. Rubber and gas are immaterial to me.
Yet there are forms of food that I'm addicted to, and will be able to keep on getting 'em. My wearing apparel is almost worn out also. Will there be more available? And fuel, as the weather cools off? What'll it cost?—I'd like to know. It would pay me to do my buying now in anticipation of a price hike, but it's an identical rule that applies to everything—my prospective overcoat, my winter underwear, my wife's stuff. Fortunately I'm too old to have babies, but I've got grandchildren.
And those grandchildren I've got to contribute to in Mexico City—in the United States diplomatic service.
I'm stung all around—so to speak, Pan-Americanly.
Well, what I'm saying is that we don't know what we've got coming. Even the autoists don't sense it.

I was over in England during the last World War. It was hades. You came pretty close to being hungry. At best you were uncomfortable. Here it wasn't so bad, but we didn't take that war seriously. This session we exaggerate, if anything. We've got that air raid complex included. I'm no more afraid of an air raid than I am of an earthquake, but everybody else is. Where I live isn't an earthquake region.
Bleak Outlook
What gives me a pain is the prospect that we'll lick the Axis and then be in an economic hole that we won't get out of in a couple of generations. I don't care whether or not Europe gets out of it. That's not our funeral. I do care mildly for China, just as a matter of sympathy.
Price Fixer Leon Henderson's stunt is to head off a world skush of the kind I've been discussing, economically. If he puts it across, economically, he'll be in a class with Christ, spiritually.
But I don't know whether or not Leon can do it.
For all I'm aware Christ, in his time, may have considered himself no bigger a man than Leon or others of today's celebrities.
These guys recite him profusely. What's the matter with their imitating him?

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—William Snyder, 58, was instructing officers thusly: "Likker—beer, one halled before Magistrate J. O'Keefe to explain why he hadn't complied with a sanitary officer's order to get rid of 40 pigeons.
"I've been eating them as fast as I could," Snyder told O'Keefe, adding he had only 20 pigeons left.
O'Keefe gave him three days to dispose of the remaining pigeons and suggested Snyder move them away—not eat them.

Today's Horoscope
This is an auspicious anniversary indeed, so celebrate your birthday to the full. Outstanding good fortune and great happiness are presaged after preliminary difficulties have been overcome. The person so celebrating is gifted with courage, ambition and a flexible and sunny nature. He or she is domestic and demonstrative in the affections; is not dogmatic in forming opinions, but does not make friends easily. Those won are loyal, however. Lucky in most respects will the child be who is born on this date, one of fortune's favorites. He or she should go far, being exceptionally ingenious, will and achieve renown. The health should be watched, however.

than 800 Czechs were slain in vengeance.
These were not punitive executions of murderers, actual or alleged. They were frankly preventive orgies, designed to estop patriotic resistance by making the price unbearably high—by assuring brave Frenchmen, Poles, Czechs, who might place no value upon their own lives, that any act against the Nazis would bring death to hundreds of innocents.

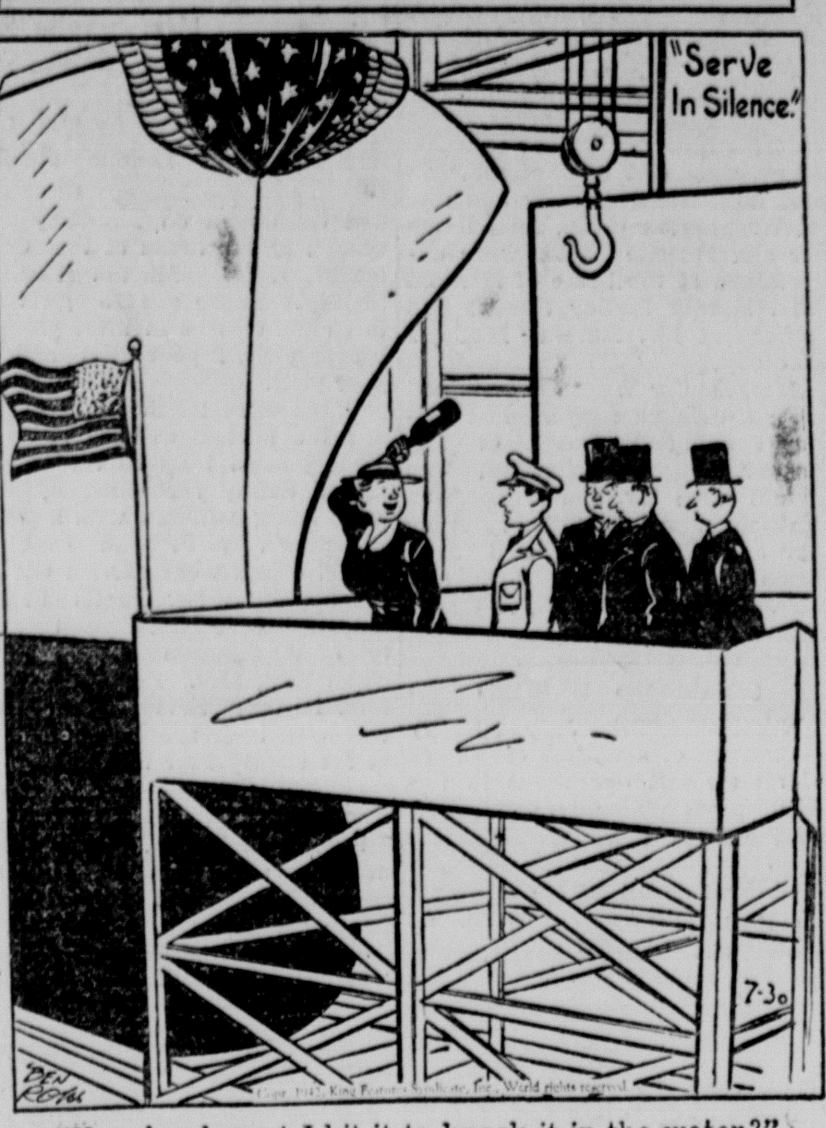

Such horrible repressive measures have proven futile. Resistance continues and increases. Having conquered most of the European continent, Herr Hitler has a deadly bear by the tail, and it has become equally disastrous for him to hang on or to let go.

The Nazis know how fatal an active fifth column can be. They used such to win almost bloodlessly over most of their neighbors. Now the shoe is on the other foot. They are becoming victims of their own methods.

When Nazism falls, the Liberty Front will deserve a big share of credit.

Results of Treatment of Nervous Patients

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WE ALL know the nervous person, the neurotic, the hypochondriac, the one who is always complaining, yet never really sick. They are tired, or they have poor digestion, or they are bilious, or they are eternally worrying about something that never happens, or mostly they are worrying about some part of their body.
They comprise a large part of any group of patients that the general practitioner sees, a large part of the patients in a clinic. And they are prone to go from doctor to doctor and they get all kinds of advice, much of which is contradictory and mixes them up and makes them worse or starts them out on a new tangent.
Do any of these patients ever get cured? Or even improved? Two New York doctors, Dr. Constance Friess and Dr. Marjory Nelson, started out to find out about this and interviewed a number of these patients five years after they began treatment in the special clinic for them in the New York Hospital Outpatient Department.

Surgery Seldom Helpful
One thing that is notable about these patients is that they are particularly susceptible to the drama of surgery. They really like to have surgical operations performed on them. It was found that in the group of psycho-neurotics compared to a group of control patients about 31 per cent of the neurotics had had a surgical operation while 11 per cent of the controls had undergone surgery. Very little of the surgery on the neurotics did any good: the old complaints returned after the surgical operation and often two or three others grew where only one had been before.

In examining these patients five years after treatment began, it was found that in about 14 per cent the original diagnosis was incorrect and that a real organic disease was present. Considering how many doctors believe that in these patients organic disease is present but missed by careless examination, and considering how universally the patients say, "I really am sick. I have something the matter with me but you can't find it, that's all," this is a surprisingly low figure. Eighty-six per cent went on for five years but nobody ever found anything really the matter with them.

Incidentally, to show the tendency these patients have to go to doctors, 81 per cent went to five clinics and 18 per cent went to from five to 20 clinics.

At the end of five years, 40 per cent of the patients showed no improvement; 22 per cent were improved; 4 per cent were cured. Some were worse and some had been incorrectly diagnosed.

One conclusion that stands out from this study is that such a patient should have but one physician or go to only one clinic. The tendency to shop around for medical care is not only wasteful, but is really detrimental to the patient's best interests. The one physician selected should go with the patient in consultation whenever consultation with another doctor is deemed advisable. These people particularly need to be guided from one control.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. S.: Is it possible to get cancer or infection to the eyes from plucking hair from your cheeks?
Answer: Cancer, no. You can infect the eyelids by plucking hair if you do not take proper surgical precautions.

CHAPTER FORTY
DIAN CAUGHT Paul's arm. "Don't make a scene, Paul," she said. "After all, Claire's of age. She doesn't have to be kissed by Bill if she doesn't want to be. He's done no more than what any other man would do—under the same circumstances."
"You mean to stand there and defend him?" said Paul.
"I do," said Dian. "But I'd like to wring Claire's neck." She caught hold of Paul's hand. "Come on, let's go back to the picnic things. There's no need of embarrassing them."
"Embarrass them, my eye!" Paul flared. But he went along with Dian.
Neither spoke until they were back where the coffee was beginning to boil. Then Dian tried to get hold of herself.
"It looks," he said, "as though you and I were left holding the bag, so to speak."
"Let's not talk about it," said Paul. "I see red as it is."
"We'll have to stick our chins up, and—"
"I've stuck mine out, as it is," said Paul. "And what a wallop I took!"
"Two Ardendale people, disappointed in love," said Dian. "Shall we organize a club?"
Paul managed to smile. "Dian," he said, "you're a grand girl."
"Thanks," said Dian. She placed four plates upon the outspread tablecloth. "I can think of only one solution, Paul. I mean to what's happened—me, jilted, and you left out in the cold."
"Okay, what's the solution?" said Paul. "Let's have it."
"You'll simply have to marry me," said Dian. "And take me off to the West Indies."
From then on, so far as Dian and Paul were concerned, the day's outing was a complete washout. And Dian was ready to pack up and go back to town the moment the picnic meal was over. Paul felt the same way, although neither one of them voiced what they felt.
However, Claire played hostess to the limit. She was the very personification of gaiety. She sometimes struck Dian as verging upon the hysterical—laughing, chatting, being vivacious all over the place. "She's probably made her decision," Dian thought. "The kiss on the beach has decided her." And when she wasn't thinking of that, she was feeling sorry for Paul. Poor fellow! He was trying his darnedest to act as though nothing had happened—as though he had not seen Bill take Claire in his arms and kiss her—and falling utterly.
Dian presently strolled off alone. She walked down to the water's edge and dove in. She swam out quite a way, turned over upon her back and floated, gazing up into the sky, and envying the little puffy white clouds that drifted here and there. How content and carefree they looked! How wonderful it would be, she thought, if troubled human beings could go floating off like that.
"Hello, there!" said a voice close to her.
She turned her head to see that Bill had joined her.
"Hello!" she said.
"What are you thinking about?" Bill asked.
"Just wishing I were a little white cloud."
"Why?"
"Oh—just a silly idea of mine. Having a good time?"
"Yes," Bill turned over on his back. "And sorry it must all end so soon. My car will be ready late tomorrow afternoon."
"How nice."
"Meaning you're glad I'll be leaving?"
"Certainly not. But glad you're to have a car once more. One misses a car, once one's used to having one. It's rather like losing a leg, I imagine."
"Not a bad comparison. You've been darned nice to me, Dian. I appreciate it."
"Oh, it's only the old southern hospitality that's inborn. It's been nice having you to break the monotony." Dian was silent for a moment. "I reckon you'll soon be back in the swing up in New York."
"Yes. But I'm still hoping I can rent your farm one of these days."
"Well, you know where to reach me, if you decide. By the way, how soon do you think you'll have a report on the picture?"

"That's hard to say. If Andrew likes it, he'll probably lose no time in letting me know."
"I hope it'll be soon. I want to make some improvements on the farmhouse and that takes money." Silence again. A little white cloud took on size and a slight grayish cover, and slid across the sun. When it did, the world seemed suddenly to become a depressed sort of place.
"Looks like rain," Dian said. "Maybe we'd better be getting back to town."
"But the wienie!" Bill said. "We haven't broiled them yet."
"I don't feel in a wienie mood," said Dian. "But if you insist, we'd better be seeing to them." She started to swim back to the island. Bill following her. "Are you two ready for the wienie roast?" she called out to Paul and Claire as she walked toward them.
"I don't think I could eat another bite of anything," said Paul. He glanced upward at the sky. "Besides, it's clouding up. We'll get chilled through if we're caught out here with nothing on but our bathing suits. Maybe we'd better be packing up."
"Darn it all," said Claire. "I wanted to stay out until the moon came up."
"The moon," said Dian, "doesn't rise until late. And if it keeps getting cloudy, there won't be any moon at all."
"Oh, all right," Claire said reluctantly. "If you two want to be wet blankets, I suppose we'll have to go." She smiled at Bill. "I did want to stay until night, though," she added, "and sing around the campfire. Bill, can people really start fires by rubbing sticks together?"
"So I've heard," Bill said. "Ask Paul, he knows."
"Of course they can," said Paul. He turned to Claire. "But for Pete's sake, don't get the idea that's the way we start fires in the West Indies," he added. "Believe it or not, we have electric lights, and we take baths in honest-to-goodness tubs."
"Really?" said Claire in an exasperating tone.
"Yes, really," said Paul, in an equally exasperating tone.

Producer Who Changed Mind Profits

By MARK BARRON (Wide World News Service)
NEW YORK—Frank Carrington is a theatrical producer who changed his mind and profited a mint. He returned from Europe where he had gone to study serious drama for a permanent theater and, instead, started a theater at the paper mill playhouse in Millburn, N. J., where he has been presenting with delightful results various Victor Herbert and other such operettas.

When Carrington opened his season early in June the plan was to present four Victor Herbert operettas, but just after they played his 'Naughty Marietta' the star, Rosemarie

Brancato, who had starred in Chicago and Cincinnati Companies, was called back to Buenos Aires where she is now doing leading coloratura role at the famous Teatro Colon.

The next presentations were headed by Dorothy Sandlin from the St. Louis Opera Company and Donald Gage is the permanent tenor lead of the company.

Carrington, who, with Antoinette Scudder, the New Jersey poet and painter, designs these productions, speaks enthusiastically about their revivals of Herbert and other long established musicals.

"This whole idea of ours really got under way about ten years ago," he said. "We were discussing what a valuable part the theater plays in American life, and what a pity it is that most communities must rely upon entertainment either from Broadway or Hollywood."

"We discussed the many theaters in Europe, or used to be there, where almost every town had its own permanent theater. One day it was decided we should have our own theater in Millburn and we laid our plans for twenty years since the pro-

'SAVINGS TAXATION' GETS CONSIDERATION

Refunds Would Be Made to Taxpayers After War

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga) of the state finance committee said today he considered taxation "the only practical way" to achieve compulsory savings, if such a system becomes necessary to forestall inflation.

"If we find it necessary to come to compulsory savings later," he told reporters in discussing the new tax bill, "it seems to me the only practical way to do it is through taxation."

"Provision could be made for the investment of a certain percentage of the tax in bonds, repayable to the taxpayer after the war. That would be a kind of induced savings."

Committee members of both major parties expressed increasing interest in some kind of forced saving system.

MURDER AND SUICIDE
ON SHARON, PA., STREET

SHARON, Pa., July 30—(AP)—A comely, 20-year-old bank secretary was shot and killed by a suitor on Main Street today. The man then killed himself with a sawed-off shotgun.

Police Chief William E. Stuart who reported the shooting, identified the couple as Miss Isabel Shane, of Aliquippa and Chauncey McDonald, about 25, of Hookstown, both in Beaver County.

Stuart said it was a case of murder and suicide, but that the motive was unknown.

37TH DIVISION MEETING TO BE HELD IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, July 30—(AP)—The annual convention of the 37th division A.E.F. Veterans Association will be held here September 5-7 instead of at Springfield, President Warren Williams of Toledo announced.

Lack of hotel accommodations was given as the reason for the change.

Mary A. Ferguson
July Bride of Charles Weller

In a quiet ceremony read in Jacksonville, Florida, Miss Mary Alice Ferguson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, became the bride of Mr. Charles F. Weller, son of Mrs. R. W. Slough, formerly of Bellefontaine, but now of Jacksonville, Florida.

The single ring vows were repeated at half past six o'clock in the Parrish House of the Immaculate Conception Church, with Father Richard Lyons officiating.

The bride, a lovely girl of blonde type, had selected a stunning ensemble of two piece, with a kelly green jacket and white knife plaited skirt, most becoming with this, she combined white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Jean Pearson acted as matron of honor and wore a beige ensemble with rose accessories. Her flowers were pink rosebuds.

Mr. Roger J. Muckerheide served as best man.

The pretty young bride graduated from Washington High School in the Class of 1937, and then attended Capital Beauty School in Columbus. After completing her course there, she has been working in the Silhouette Beauty Shop here.

Mr. Weller is stationed in Jacksonville with the U. S. Navy, being a radioman at the base there.

The young couple will reside at 2312 Dellwood Avenue, Jacksonville.

Lovely Party
Given Wednesday
By Mrs. Hedges

Mrs. Aublin Hedges added a lovely party to the week's social calendar, when she invited the members of her two table club in which she has continued her membership, and three extra tables to her lovely new home in Hillsboro, Wednesday afternoon.

The charm of the new home in which they recently moved, and viewing the beautiful interior was an added pleasure for the twenty guests.

Flowers were in profusion in the spacious rooms and were greatly admired.

The dessert course was served at small tables arranged in the adjoining rooms, and perfectly appointed. Centering each table were small vases of mixed flowers. The course was exceptionally delicious, and the enjoyment of the luncheon hour most delightful.

Five tables of bridge were in play during the afternoon, with high score trophies presented to Mrs. John Forsythe and Mrs. Ormond Dewey.

New Martinsburg
W.S.C.S. Meets
With Mrs. Waln

The New Martinsburg W.S.C.S. met at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Minnie Waln Wednesday afternoon. There were twenty-seven members and ten visitors present. The roll call was answered by patriotic expressions. The devotionals were led by Mrs. Ida Fishback.

The program consisted of a song by Eva Jett, "Lead Kindly Light," a piano solo by LaVerne Tway, a duet by Doris Eileen and Naomi Tway and a vocal solo, "Beautiful Dreamer" by Lois Jett. Bible questions were given by Mrs. Alma Ellis, and an historical contest conducted by Mrs. Lillie McCoy, with Eva Jett and Mrs. Lucy Wipert winning the prizes in the contests.

During the social hour, lovely refreshments were served. The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Minnie Waln and Mrs. Naomi Tway. The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leila Wilson.

Given Lovely
Going Away Party

A very delightful small bridge party was entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. R. T. Andrews at her attractive home in honor of Mrs. Ted Ottinger who leaves soon for Indianapolis, Indiana and later to join Lieut. Ottinger in Rome, New York.

Two tables of bridge were at play during the evening, at the close of which the hostess served a delicious and tempting salad course at the bridge tables, centered with pretty garden flowers.

Included with the attractive honor guest and enjoying the hospitality of the charming hostess were Mrs. Thomas Christopher, Mrs. Fred Ensien, Mrs. Fred Rost, Mrs. Leonard Korn, Mrs. Otis Core and Mrs. Lamoine Everhart.

Mrs. Rost won the trophy for high score and Mrs. Thomas Christopher for low and a lovely going away gift was presented to Mrs. Ottinger.

Pretty Party

Miss Ann Story entertained with a most delightful party Wednesday inviting her guests to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Story for a most pleasant afternoon.

The attractive country home was lovely with bouquets of flowers from the young hostess' gardens, and the cool breeze from off the lawns made it most enjoyable.

The dining table was exquisitely appointed for the luncheon, with an embroidered linen set used. Centering the table was a large arrangement of mixed flowers in a lovely watergarden.

The two course menu was particularly delicious and appealing for a hot summer day.

Bridge was keenly played during the afternoon, with two tables pivoting. High score trophies were presented to Mrs. Judith S. Robinson and Mrs. Ralph Lloyd.

GAS IS ORDERED BY WAR BOARD FOR THIS AREA

Fears Over Shortage and Cold Homes Here Next Winter Are Allayed

Residents of Washington C. H. who have been just a little jittery about the coming winter and the gas supply today heaved a sigh of relief after learning that the War Production Board had acted to insure central Ohio against possible natural gas shortage in the cold months not far away.

There had been some uneasiness here concerning the gas supply in view of the government's increasing demands for war production. And, warnings to conserve electricity and to lay in the winter's coal supply before the end of summer had not served as balm for the anxiety. There never had been any warnings that gas might be discontinued, however. But, the fear persisted, and many had given serious consideration to turning from gas to coal, and even wood where possible—until stoves and heaters became war-scarce and then they became even more concerned.

Within the last few years, gas furnaces have been installed in many Washington C. H. homes. Worry in some of these became almost acute.

But, there was considerable relief when the WPB ordered the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., which supplies much of the natural gas to central Ohio, and the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. to establish a connection permitting deliveries by the Panhandle of "as much natural gas as it can make available."

Pipelines of the two firms join at the Indiana-Ohio State line between Muncie, Ind., and Dayton, and a connection could be effected simply by opening a valve, WPA said.

Presidents of both companies were asked to make priority applications and take other steps necessary to build about 14 miles of line for a second connection between the two systems near Perrysburg, Ohio.

WPB emphasized that although there was no gas shortage in the area now, one might develop unless safeguarding steps were taken. Under the proposal, Panhandle gas could be delivered to Ohio Fuel this summer and fall for storage in wells.

At Columbus, President C. I. Weaver of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. said the connection with Panhandle was near Greenville and tied directly to Ohio Gas's largest compressor station at Sugar Grove in Fairfield County.

"About 10 to 15 million cubic feet a day will be taken from the (Panhandle) line until cold weather and forced back into the ground through wells in the Benson Storage fields in the Hocking Valley," Weaver said. "This gas then becomes available in quantities near Ohio markets to supply War industrial needs and still meet the demands of domestic customers during cold weather."

Market Hogs Earlier To Avoid Market Glut! That's Uncle Sam's Plea

CHICAGO, July 30—(AP)—Agricultural officials from ten mid-western states returned home today to map out a plan to market the heavy run of hogs earlier than usual this fall to avoid a shortage of pork.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard informed the war board chairman and extension service officials meeting with him yesterday, "We need more hogs marketed early. Otherwise we face a serious temporary shortage of pork products."

"With a fourth more hogs to market this fall and winter," he asserted, "we must spread out normal peak marketings to avoid jamming packing plants and transportation facilities."

Wickard also urged farmers to change feeding methods so their hogs will be fat despite being shipped to buying centers early and to use feed supplies carefully to conserve corn. He warned that the corn borer pest was making rapid headway in the eastern part of the corn belt and was a serious threat to future production.

The conferees, following his suggestions, agreed to work out details of these three plans:

1. Early marketing of hogs this fall with later shipments to be spread out to avoid gluts; 2. Balanced feeding for hogs using more wheat, soy bean meal, peanuts and other provender and less corn; and 3. An educational campaign to bring the corn borer under control.

MEAT SHORTAGE CAUSE

OMAHA, July 30—(AP)—That the rising tide of meat shortages in many cities may become nationwide due to curtailed cattle feeding was stressed in a brief of information prepared by the National Livestock advisory council and presented to the office of price administration in Washington today.

The brief, a digest of testimony from cattlemen of 18 states, taken at Des Moines July 15-16, was made public today by officers by the council, consisting of leading livestock producers and feeders from the cornbelt and cattle producing states. Possible meat rationing by December 1 is seen unless action is taken, according to council president Jay Colburn of Harlan, Ia.

Pointing out that the nation's beef tonnage is threatened by present price ceilings, the brief emphasizes that cattle are being marketed at lighter weights, causing losses of 100 pounds or more per animal.

The council's statement to the OPA concludes that meat rationing is necessary if farmers are permitted to feed meat animals to normal market weight. The brief maintains that this is impossible under present price ceilings and presents a four point program for stabilizing costs.

Specifically requested is that the OPA immediately remove the threat of ceilings on live animals adjust price ceilings on the four recently promulgated grades of beef to permit 110 (CQ) percent of parity on each grade of slaughter cattle as listed by the government purchases of beef, be used to help maintain the pro-

Vaudeville for Fair On Last Two Nights

Two Henrys of Stage Review

In their constant search for acts that are really different and still entertaining, the Fair Board will present the Two Henrys in the Stage Revue Friday and Saturday nights in front of the grandstand. Although this smart team does more than four separate acts, their most striking turn, or "big" act is the rolling globe novelty. In this act the duo manage to remain in an upright position on large colorful globes while juggling, spinning ropes and other and even more difficult tricks.

The globes are rolled out onto the stage at the beginning of the act and this becomes their only means of locomotion from there on. They finish by mounting a narrow and high ramp from where they go into a surprising and thrilling finale.

Makes Both Ends Meet

Soaring costs of living should cause little worry to the Two Henrys, novelty team. Art Henry's ability to "make both ends meet" is no less amazing and he would make any self respectable pretzel blush with shame at the intricate shapes into which he forces his body. For, Art is a contortionist extraordinary and puts on a performance that is entertaining and not in the least gruesome as are some acts of this type. Art Henry finishes his novelty turn with a leap through a tiny aperture that is ringed with razor sharp knives.

Versatility Plus

There seems to be no end to the talents of the Two Henrys. They not only do their rolling globe act, contortion and even an excellent dog entertainment but tight wire as well. This part of the attraction is handled by Art Henry, the less glamorous but equally talented member of the team. Pretty Marie his partner assists, while Art runs the gamut of familiar and original acrobatic and tumbling tricks on the tight wire.

COMMANDOS OF THE AIR LOOM AS U. S. DEVELOPS NEW FORCE OF GLIDERS

place gliders for the present, but even a station with a top of 450 horsepower can pick up two of those, one at a time. There is no apparent reason why more powerful tow planes could not pick up the nine and 15-man gliders our Army is getting and the even larger ones we may expect it to have in the future.

From an air trooper's viewpoint it looks like this: You get into your parachute harness and climb into the glider, a converted Piper Cub, with engine removed and an extra seat in its place. Ahead of you is a Dupont, who'll do the piloting. Behind you is another passenger.

Some 200 feet ahead of the glider are two 10-foot poles. A line of Nylon rope, resilient and strong, is hooked to the nose of the glider. That line ends in a loop, and the top of the loop is stretched across the tops of the poles.

Back over your shoulder somewhere you hear the tow plane coming. As it comes in, it levels off as if for a landing but the pilot keeps her wheeling at anywhere from 100 to 130 M. P. H. He also drops a boom, which has a hook on the end of it that is attached to another strong line leading from a power reel in the plane.

The boom hits the rope stretched across the uprights, the rope slides down to the bottom of the boom and into the hook, an action which disengages hook and pickup rope from the boom and sets the winch in motion.

To absorb the initial shock the reel first pays out extra line. It does that so well that I didn't feel any shock. We were quite simply and suddenly moving and that was all there was to it. The reel brake is applied gradually. By this time the glider already is air borne, and then the brake is set. Now the glider can be cut loose at any moment the glider pilot desires.

The possibilities are, quite obviously, tremendous—or in the words of Brig. Gen. William C. Lee, head of the airborne command—its a phenomenal development provided it can be adapted to gliders carrying heavier loads. Even as it stands, it can help us tremendously in our glider program.

It will speed up glider pilot training and it means that you won't have to send a plane in the air every time you want a glider to take off.

General Lee tried it himself as did Col. Fred A. Borum, chief of the recently formed troop carrier command, and at least a dozen other colonels, majors, captains and lieutenants.

All were enthusiastic—almost as much so as young Dupont who spent almost the entire afternoon in the air—all got very, very hot, but at the finish also appeared very, very happy.

'MRS. MINIVER' IS BOOKED FOR FULL WEEK HERE

Epic Story of Courage of British in War To Be Shown at Fayette

Jan Struther's best-seller, "Mrs. Miniver," heart-warming story of an average English woman, has been brought to the screen as a timely and significant motion picture, dealing as it does with the heroic courage of the British middle class on the home front during the present war.

It has been booked for the Fayette Theatre for one full week beginning August 7 at no advance in price and as a pre-release engagement, Hoy O. Simons, the theater manager, announced Wednesday.

It is now in its eighth week at Music Hall in New York City and has been shown there to more than a million persons, Simons said.

The story, simply, honestly and graphically told as it might be in a dispatch from a bombed English village, is woven around the Minivers and their family.

Greer Garson as Mrs. Miniver and Walter Pidgeon as her husband, Clem, are starred in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. The film reunites them as the public demanded, after their outstanding performances in "Blossoms in the Dust."

Spectacular Sequences

Principal locales of the picture are London shortly before the war and a nearby village on the Thames, where the Minivers live in solid middle class fashion with their three children. While the picture has several spectacular wartime sequences, the rescue at Dunkirk and the bombing of the village, emphasis is placed on the reactions of these everyday people going through the horrors of war in their own homes, rather than the tragic events themselves. The Dunkirk sequence, for example, shows the non-combatant British men of the village collecting their fleet of tiny boats to rescue trapped fathers, sons and brothers across the turbulent and dangerous channel.

Hollywood Newcomer

Teresa Wright, bright Hollywood newcomer from the New York stage success, "Life with Father," and who recently scored in "The Little Foxes," plays Carol Beldon, granddaughter of the village aristocrat. She is romantically teamed with Richard Ney, also from "Life with Father," who has the role of Vin Miniver, son of the Minivers and an RAF pilot. Lady Beldon, benevolent ruler of the village, who looks down her nose at the middle classes, is portrayed by Dame May Whitty, noted English actress. In other leading featured roles are Henry Travers as the station master and Henry Wilcoxon as the village vicar.

William Wyler, who recently gave the screen another hit in "The Little Foxes," directed, and Sidney Franklin produced.

At an improvised altar bedecked with white gladioli and palms and lighted with several tall candelabra, Miss Martha Gene Diffendal, daughter of Mrs. F. C. Rhodes of South Charleston and Mr. John E. Diffendal, was united in marriage to Mr. Roy Waggoner, son of Mr. Meadford Waggoner of Lewisburg on Saturday evening at eight-thirty o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rhodes in South Charleston.

Rev. W. D. Huber of Troy, a former Methodist Minister of South Charleston read the double ring ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. John E. Diffendal presented nuptial music of "Somewhere A Voice Is Calling" by E. Newton and A. Tate and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," an old English air, the words of which were written by Ben Johnson. Vocal numbers were presented by Miss Evelyn Sears of Springfield who sang, "At Dawning," by Charles Cadman and "Ave Maria" by Schubert with Mrs. Diffendal furnishing the accompaniment.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of yellow silk jersey and her corsage was of white orchids.

Mrs. Gene Skillings of Springfield, sister of the bride was the only bridesmaid and she wore a gown of blue silk Jersey and her corsage was of white gardenias and pink tea roses.

Serving as best man for the groom was Mr. Don Tiller of Columbus.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Rhodes home for the family and close friends.

The couple will make their home in Chicago, Ill., where Mr. Waggoner is stationed in government work.

RECORD OPENING DAY CROWD AT FAIR RACES

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

(Wide World News Service)
NEW YORK, July 30—American soldiers are taking their sports along wherever they go, thereby adding greatly to the confusion of world affairs. . . . Recently we've seen a report from Australia on an American football game played there and from Belfast on a clash between soldier baseball teams. . . . The Aussie scribe couldn't quite figure out why it was called 'football' when there was so little kicking and the Irishman concluded: "One thing Belfast 'fans' will have to remember in the future if they want to appear knowledgeable. Never applaud or get excited about an ordinary or fairly high 'fly ball'."

Today's Guest Star
Pete Norton, Tampa (Fla.) Tribune: "It sounds like the truth. . . 81,610 citizens of New Jersey and Pennsylvania shelled out $2,800,000 in bets at the new Camden track last week. . . If each of these bettors had stayed home, added $7.50 to the $30 at the race track, he could have bought a $50 war bond. . . And very likely have saved gasoline tires and year and tear on his nervous system!"

The Great Mouthpiece
Jimmy Johnston's latest communique to the press is all about Adam Spencer, a young Negro heavyweight whom Jimmy claims Bob Pastor discovered working as a sparring partner in Stillman's gym. . . Jimmy makes Adam sound very good, but privately he adds: "You can get more money with a bum heavyweight than with a champion in any other class."

Blues Return To Top Spot In AA Race

(By The Associated Press)
The American Association's turbulent pennant race, which contributed a new leader, a first place tie and almost a three-way deadlock since the start of the week, returned to normalcy today. The association's normal that is.
Kansas City was back in first place by a full game over Milwaukee.
Third place Columbus, within a half game of the lead early yesterday, found itself two and a half games of the pace.
Kansas City regained the lead it lost to Milwaukee Sunday by sweeping a double header with Columbus, 3-2 and 9-5.
At Milwaukee the Toledo Mudhens ran their winning streak to seven by taking the first game of a double header, 3-2, but were overpowered in the second, 10-7.
The Louisville Colonels made it three out of four against St. Paul by winning yesterday, 6 to 1.
Minneapolis salvaged the last of a three game series with Indianapolis, 7 to 1.

Day's Fastest Time Is Made in Special; Spill in Last Heat

H. F. B. Wins 2:24 Pacing Stake in Straight Heats With Strong Finishes—Hava Hanover Takes Both Heats Of Stake for Two-Year-Old Pacers

H. F. B., a brown gelding by Agile, won the $500 stake for 2:24 pacers in three straight heats from a field of 14 starters to grab a share of the spotlight from Hava Hanover, a bay colt by Calumet Chuck, as the four-day racing program of the Fair got underway with one of the biggest opening day crowds in many years filling the historic old grandstand.
But, it was the special extra race, made possible by last hour contributions of followers of the harness horse racing sport, that furnished the thrills and the fastest time of the afternoon and the only accident to mar the program.
Moon Flower, a bay horse by Tiger Flower, driven by Babe Cartnel won the first heat of the special after coming from far behind and finished second in the second heat a half length behind Gayland, a bay mare by Scotland, driven by Ernie Smith. The crowd was tense with excitement and anticipation of a gruelling duel between these two in the last heat, but a nasty spill on the first turn put Gayland out of the race and let Moon Flower come from behind again to win easily.

Three-horse Spill
Going away fast in the last heat, Japonica Red took the pole with Gayland fourth and Moon Flower seventh. As the field headed into the turn Red Abbe, crowded in the melee, appeared to step through a wheel of Smith's bike and Robert Loft, driven by James France of London, got caught in the jam and a wheel of this bike was crushed. Smith managed to get to the outside, just beyond the gap and pulled up his horse and escaped with nothing more than a severe shaking up. France's leg appeared to have become fastened in the crushed wheel of his bike and he was dragged around the turn to the back stretch before he was thrown clear. He laid at the outside of the track as if stunned until the race was over. Then he walked to the barn with assistance of bystanders. Latest reports were that he was not seriously injured and had suffered no broken bones.
Gayland paced the fastest mile, (2:08½), of the afternoon in winning the second heat. Smith took him away in front and held him steady on the rail against challenges of Japonica Red and Peter H. Pulled out for his drive through the final furlong, Moon Flower closed with a rush but was beaten by a neck.

H. F. B., also racing best from behind, was easily the class of the pacing stake although driving finishes and narrow margins

LOWLY CHISOX HAVE JINX ON MIGHTY YANKS

Only Team Able To Beat League Leaders in Doubleheader

By JUDSON BAILEY
(By The Associated Press)
The Chicago White Sox have been going nowhere in the American League ever since the season started, but they have attained one distinction denied every other club in the circuit. They are the only team to sweep a doubleheader from the world champion New York Yankees and they have accomplished the feat not once, but twice.

When the Sox first turned the trick in New York on June 28, the Yanks were in a slump and the Sox didn't get much credit. But they caught the champions last night at the crest of a winning streak that included four straight victories and 15 of their last 16 games and proceeded to whip the Yankees at the kind of ball for which New York is noted—slugging.

The first game was played at twilight and the Yanks gave Atley Donald a 5-1 lead with five runs in the third inning, two of them on Joe DiMaggio's 16th homer. Then the Sox slugged back to win 6-5 in 11 innings.

The second game, played under the lights, saw the Sox take an early 5-2 lead, the Yanks tie the score in the sixth, and then Chicago came back with two runs in its half of the same frame to win 7-5.

This merely dented the Yanks' big first place margin to 12 games, because the Boston Red Sox were nosed out 7-6 in 11 innings at Cleveland when Roy Weatherly singled with the bases loaded.

At St. Louis the Washington Senators squeezed past the Browns again 11-10 with four runs in the ninth inning.

The Detroit Tigers walloped the Philadelphia Athletics 12-7. In the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers enlarged their lead to eight games by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in a twilight tussle that was halted in the last of the seventh by wartime dimout regulations in the New York area. Enos (Country) Slaughter drove in all the St. Louis runs with a homer in the first and a double in the seventh.

The two doubleheaders which completed the senior circuit card were halted. The Chicago Cubs welcomed Van Lingle Mungo back into the majors a bit ruderly, beating the New York Giants 4-2 even though held to seven hits in the first game. The Giants took the second game, 3-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates took their first game at Boston, 3-0, but the Braves retaliated with a 6-5 decision in the nightcap.

OSU Seat Sale For Home Games Under Last Year

COLUMBUS, July 30—(P)—Sale of season tickets to Ohio State University's home football games is 20 per cent below last year and nine per cent less than in July, 1940, Henry D. Taylor, ticket director, announced today. Despite tire rationing, out-of-town purchases have exceeded sales to Columbus fans, usually the team's heaviest supporters. August 15 is the final sale date for season books.

Final Test Is Up For Hambletonian

OLD ORCHARD BEACH ME., July 30—(P)—The $3,000 Richfield stake for three-year-old trotters and National stakes for baby trotters and pacers top the grand circuit program today. All three stake races were postponed when weather drove horses and fans from the kite strip after four heats yesterday. The Richfield, a last rehearsal for the $40,000 Hambletonian, provides another test for Colby Hanover and Cannon Ball, rated one-two in early books on the trotting derby at Goshen, August 12.

Giving Reds a RAY of Hope

Ray Lamanno

It's HooRAY for Ray down in the Ohio river valley as Ray Lamanno, rookie catcher for the Cincinnati Reds, continues to wallop the ball at a terrific pace and breaks up all games with timely hits. Lamanno had to take a back seat to the veteran Rollie Hemmley at the start of the season, but since he was inserted into the lineup he has clicked. At last reports he was leading the league and by a wide margin, too. Lamanno, only 22 years old, is an Oakland, Cal. product who has had but four years of minor league experience. He broke in with Muskogee in 1938 and has seen service with Columbia and Birmingham since. Last year he hit .286 for Birmingham.

Reds Rounding into Shape As Next Home Stand Nears

By Gabriel Paul
Cincinnati—The Reds return to their home base Tuesday after having traveled the National League's eastern section for two weeks. Their opening opponent Tuesday, which will be 'ladies' day, will be the rampaging St. Louis Cardinals, whose youngsters have turned on the batting steam the last month or so.
Tuesday's game against the Cards will be followed by a night game Wednesday. Shriners of Cincinnati and vicinity will participate in the festivities to precede the Wednesday night game and one of the outstanding shows of the season is a certainty. When the Shriners do things they usually do them right, and the plans they have made for Wednesday night are in keeping with all of their past performances.

A block of several thousand tickets has been purchased by the Syrian Temple. Potentate Nat A. Bell will be on hand for the proceedings. The game will start at 9 o'clock, but the festivities will get under way shortly after 8 o'clock.

Thursday will be an open date, then Jimmy Wilson's Chicago Cubs, who have been mighty rough on the Reds this year, come to Crosley Field for a night game Friday, an afternoon game Saturday, and a doubleheader Sunday. Wilson, now that Novikoff has been hitting the cover off the ball, has one of the best outfields in the league.
Nicholson and Cavarrotta, in addition to Novikoff, are all around the .300 mark. Novikoff and Nicholson have stretched their averages considerably in the past six weeks. Novikoff's gain was more than 100 points.

The Reds will have some interesting outfield talent to show themselves. Eric Tipton, purchased from Kansas City, seems to have done what McKechnie wanted of him in left field, while Gee Walker has come out of his slump and has been hitting the ball hard. So has rightfielder Max Marshall. Too, the Reds have Frank Kelleher, International League home run king, who is ready to step in any time one of the others bogs down. Kelleher is a long distance thumper for whom Crosley Field is made to order.

The purchase of Tipton and Kelleher, plus the rounding into playing shape of Mike McCormick, has changed the entire Red-legged garden picture. It was the outfield which carried the batting load on the eastern trip, which is as it should be.
McCormick, who broke a leg a couple of months ago, is now ready to play again and probably will see plenty of service, for, in addition to being a fine defensive outfielder, he has the highest composite average of any gardener with the Reds since 1938. His complete batting average since he joined the Reds is .294.

Reds All Set To End Series With Phils
PHILADELPHIA, July 30—(P)—With a rookie outfielder pitching and a veteran shortstop catching, the Philadelphia Phils close out their series with the Cincinnati Reds tonight.
Earl Naylor, who knocked in 111 runs for the Memphis Chicks in the Southern Association last year and poled the home park's longest homer on record, is the converted outfielder who will be trying for his first victory on the mound. He's lost five.

Bobby Bragan, Phils' shortstop for three years and displaced this season by Danny Murtaugh, is slated to begin a try at backstopping as a means of keeping out of the minors.
Bucky Walters can match Ray Starr's leading record among Redleg hurlers tonight by winning his 13th against seven setbacks.
Last night's game was canceled because of weather.

situation appeared to be growing rapidly more acute in the northern Caucasus, where the Russians acknowledged fresh Nazi advances at several points. The German high command asserted broadly that the Russian line of retreat to the east had been cut off in the great Don River bend, but gave no details. Dispatches to Red Star said a gigantic seven-day-old battle was raging in the Don bend above Stalingrad, involving thousands of troops, planes, field guns and tanks.

Crisis for Nazis, Too Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, said Germany now was throwing her last resources into the great summer offensive. "The enemy is not so strong as he appears to some scared panic-mongers," Pravda said. Front-line dispatches said Marshal Semyon Timoshenko was rushing huge reserves of manpower into the struggle, while Nazi prisoners were quoted as saying that the Germans were forced to shift troops from other sectors of the front to bolster the Don River offensive.

A mid-day bulletin from Soviet headquarters indicated that the Germans, hurling waves of 40 to 50 tanks into a series of attacks, had gained some ground in the Kletskaya sector, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, but the communists added: "All attempts by the Germans to drive wedges into our defenses failed." This indicated that the Russians were doggedly holding their lines intact, slowly yielding where necessary, and frustrating the Nazi tactics of encirclement and annihilation. Soviet troops were credited with destroying 123 tanks and killing 4,000 Germans in a half a dozen engagements within the last 36 hours. On the far southern front, where Gen. Fedor Von Bock's armies are striking toward the Caucasus oil treasures, the Russians conceded fresh German gains in the Bataisk sector, 15 miles below Rostov-on-Don. Dispatches to Red Star, the Soviet Army newspaper, emphasized the gravity of the situation, declaring: "Only by a self-sacrificing struggle will we hold the enemy from the south."

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, July 30.—(P)—After fluctuating erratically above and below previous closing levels most of the session, wheat prices turned definitely lower just before the close, losses of a cent or more carrying quotations back to around lows for the season. Selling was blamed on dealers placing hedges against limited amounts of wheat offered to the commercial trade and on lagging flour demand. Sporadic buying came from previous short sellers. War news continued to unsettle the market and wheat weakened later with corn, which was depressed, traders said, by expectations that the government price for feed wheat will be lowered in order to push this grain into livestock consumption.

Wheat closed 3/4-1 1/4c lower than yesterday. Sept. 1 1/2c, Dec. 1 1/2c; corn 3/4-1/2c down. Sept. 89c, Dec. 92c; soybeans 1/4c down to 1 1/4c higher; rye 1/2-3/4c lower.

TRAFFIC TOLL DECREASES

32 PERCENT DURING JUNE

CHICAGO, July 30.—(P)—Ten thousand lives could be saved, the National Safety Council said today, if a record-breaking reduction in traffic deaths throughout the nation in June were maintained for the rest of the year.

The June total of 2,090 fatalities was 32 percent less than the June, 1941, toll, the greatest decrease for any one month in the council records.

are not entitled to the civil courts.

He termed the Milligan case "bad law." In that case, the supreme court issued a writ of habeas corpus for an Indiana citizen who was held for trial before a military commission. President Lincoln defied the court's ruling in the matter.

There was no formal announcement immediately, but participants in the trial acknowledged that the secret military proceeding, in recess since late Monday, would not be resumed until Friday morning.

The only prisoner who has not joined in the action before the Supreme Court is George John Dasch, whose status has been somewhat different from that of his seven companions since the trial began July 8. At that time a special counsel, Colonel Carl Ristine, was appointed to defend Dasch before the military commission.

That led immediately to speculation that Dasch was being given special treatment because he had assisted the government in the preparation of its case. There were other but less obvious indications that that was true.

Scottish Rite Masons Hold Five-County Meeting

WAR SACRIFICE TOPIC OF TALK BY GOV. BRICKER

Members of Order Enjoy Golf and Visiting Before Evening Banquet

All fraternal organizations are doomed to oblivion if the Axis powers win the war, Governor John W. Bricker told a gathering of 150 Scottish Rite Masons at the Country Club here as they sat around the banquet tables at the first inter-county meeting ever held by that lodge in the state.

Gov. Bricker, long interested in Masonry and active in the affairs in the Temple in the state capital, devoted much of his talk to America's war effort, the obligations of the people to their country in this global upheaval and their stake in the worldwide conflict. Unlike his talk before a gathering of Blue Lodge Masons here about two years ago, which dealt largely with Masonic principles and concepts, the governors address before the Scottish Rite conclave here was on the everyday theme of war and war conditions.

"It remains for the English speaking people, banded together as we are now, to rid the World of the barbarian menace (the Axis powers led by Hitler), Gov. Bricker declared and continued: "In this World conflict, the principles of Free Masonry and the brotherhood of man are at stake. Ours is a duty to help the sick and the weak and defend the right to worship as we please. These principles must be preserved, even to the sacrifice of our lives."

Boys from Ohio drove some of the tanks that defended Bataan, the governor declared, added: "Some of them gave their lives—and some are prisoners now. Some of them will not come back. There is no sacrifice greater than this—that we here on the home front can live in peace and happiness after the war."

Against this background, Gov. Bricker declared with strong emphasis "we must support every move of our government and we must back every son of the United States at the front." And then, his voice vibrant with feeling and determination, he said in a tone marked by grimness: "We must win this war or perish as a great nation."

There are 1,275 different factories in Ohio contributing 100 percent to the war effort, the governor disclosed with the challenge: "All the tire saving, all the sugar rationing inconvenience and the work we do will not equal, even compare, to the sacrifices of the boys at the battle fronts."

Arrives Here Late
The governor had expressed the hope that he could get here early enough in the afternoon to have a look at the Fair, but when he arrived about 6 P. M. he explained to the host committee that he had been detained for more than two hours by a conference with a delegation from the national capital. He did not elaborate on the purpose of the conference.

However, many of the other Scottish Rite Masons from the five counties—Clinton, Ross, Pickaway, Madison and Fayette—spent the entire afternoon at the Country Club. A number of them took to the golf course for an afternoon of recreation on the links while others sat on the broad veranda or inside the club house in the lounge talking and playing cards.

The banquet was served at 6:30 P. M. and at its conclusion, Belford F. Carpenter, the Scottish Rite manager for Fayette County took over the after-dinner program as toastmaster.

The interest state and national Scottish Rite officials had in the inter-county meeting "experiment" here was evidenced, Carpenter said by the fact that 42 of the 56 dignitaries of the Valley of Columbus, invited as special guests, accepted. Of these five, acting in the nature of spokesman for the entire group, responded to the call of the toastmaster. All thirty-third degree Masons, they were: L. Ewing Jones, Robert W. Taylor, Allen W. Williams, Cecil J. Randall, David B. Sharp and John E. Powell.

The committee which arranged the meeting and banquet was made up of Colin C. Campbell, representing Jeffersonville; William Wrobble, representing Bloomingburg and Selby P. Gerstner, representing Washington C. H. Carpenter was the general chairman; William M. Campbell was the chairman of the reception committee, Frank S. Jackson, of the golf committee; Colin C. Campbell of the credentials committee and Gerstner of the banquet committee. Other committeemen were: Ed Bush, George Blessing, Samuel Cox,

JAP DESTROYER HIT BY ALLIED BOMBERS

Fourth Blasted Since Base Set Up on New Guinea

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 30.—(AP)—Allied bombers hit a Japanese destroyer off Gona Mission, on New Guinea's Papuan Peninsula coast, and left the warship wreathed in smoke and scurrying toward shore, apparently for beaching, a headquarters communique announced today.

It was the fourth enemy ship accounted for by Allied airmen since the Japanese thrust their invasion force down the coast to gain their foothold last Wednesday, some 110 miles from the Allied base at Port Moresby on the opposite shore of the Papuan Peninsula. In previous attacks three enemy transports were knocked out.

Concessionaire at Fair Gets Wish! Dies Amid Excitement That Was Life

Oscar Van Mallory, 69, lifelong fair follower—got his wish last night—he died on the Fairgrounds!

Mallory had spent most of his life since he was 8 years old as a Fair follower, being connected with fair concessions of various kinds since he was a child.

Two years ago his health began failing, and a short time ago he was told by physicians that unless he entered a hospital for care he would not last 10 days.

He held a restaurant concession at the Fair here and lived in a trailer. Wednesday evening his condition became serious, and a few friends and a physician gathered in his little trailer home where death fulfilled his wish at 8 o'clock.

Mallory had long been known to Fair officials and others here, he having "made" the Fayette County Fair for a great many years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Etta Mallory and a stepdaughter, Patricia Ann Snedker. One sister, Mrs. Lola Carver, Hammond, Indiana, also survives.

GOVERNMENT BONDS MAY CUT BIG INCOMES

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—A proposal to channel all individual incomes above $25,000 a year into government bonds for the duration of the war was advanced today by Senator Brown (D-Mich.), a member of the senate finance committee considering the program to add $6,271,000,000 to the nation's revenue.

Brown told reporters he believed some such compromise may provide a workable way of putting into effect President Roosevelt's suggestion to limit net incomes of all persons to $25,000 a year, after payment of taxes.

The longest welded pipeline in the world is now pouring oil into North Carolina from the Gulf, doing the work of 10 tankers.

CLEANING CHANNEL OF CREEK IN CITY

Odor Arising from Stream Starts Remedy

For several days workmen have been engaged in cutting out the channel of Paint Creek within the city limits, at points where riffles prevented proper drainage of the stream. The condition of the creek is expected to change when the work is completed.

A great deal of odor arising from the stream indicates pollution at some points and City Manager Edwin Ducey said Thursday that this was being checked.

PLACE RIBBONS IN SWINE SHOW AT COUNTY FAIR

Barrow Exhibit One of the Outstanding Exhibits In Department

The large swine exhibits at the Fayette County Fair is drawing a great deal of attention, and some of the finest animals exhibited at the Fair in recent years are included in the show.

Sam Marting is superintendent of the livestock department, and Earl Devore, of Winchester, a well known swine judge, placed the ribbons.

The exhibit of barrows was unusually large and the quality exceptionally high, this being one of the main highlights of the swine exhibits.

Sam Marting's Berkshires won all first and second awards in the various classes.

In the Hampshire exhibit, Irwin Gerhart's hogs carried off all firsts and seconds.

Earl Harper and Son's exhibits won all firsts and seconds in the Poland China classes.

In the Duroc Jersey classes, Justin T. Owens carried off all firsts and seconds except those noted below, which were won by Charles Miller.

Second in aged boar; second and third in senior sow pig; third in Junior boar pig; third in aged sow; second and third in junior sow pig.

Walter McCoy carried off top honors in the Spotted Poland China exhibit and the only other awards in these classes went to Charles McCoy, as follows:

Second in aged sow; third in junior boar pig; first and second in yearling sow; third in junior sow pig; third in young herd; third in senior sow pig.

In the champion pen of three, Walter Sollars won first in the 160 to 200 pound class; F. B. Wain carried off first in the 200 to 400 pound class and champion barrow of the show.

In the barrows class, 160 to 200 pounds, F. B. Wain was first, Walter McCoy, 2nd; Marjorie Sollars, 3rd; Russell Grim, 4th, and Walter Sollars 5th.

In the 200 to 400 pound barrow class, first went to Wain, 2nd, to Sollars, 3rd to Charles Miller; 4th and 5th to Robert Cockerill.
